Overloaded Electrical Circuits Can Cause Fires

The United States Fire Administration, part of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, urges everyone to be aware of a potential killer that lurks in every neighborhood, regardless of income or location. The killer is fire, and it strikes many communities every year. Research suggests that more than one-third of home fires in the United States occur during December, January and February. These months pose a higher fire threat due to increased use of heating sources and electrical products. As the nation's leading federal organization in fire safety and prevention, USFA supports the efforts of local communities to reduce the number of fire injuries and deaths. Top officials at the USFA stress the following safety tips this winter season:

- ?? Have an escape plan and practice it regularly.
- ?? Do not overload electrical outlets.
- ?? Never leave the house with candles burning.
- ?? Keep stairwells and exits free of furniture or other household items.
- ?? Space heaters need space. Keep combustibles at least three feet away from each heater.
- ?? Do not try to extinguish a house fire. Get everyone out and then call your local emergency number.
- ?? Install smoke alarms and keep them maintained. Proper maintenance includes testing monthly, battery replacement annually and always keeping them clean.

Remember: Trash Rules Affect Everyone

Those residing on area installations need to remember that trash island areas are used by all residents and therefore everyone needs to be responsible for keeping the areas tidy. Residents should place trash in the proper containers and not on the ground. There are large containers available on each installation for large item disposal, and large items are picked up weekly if placed in a safe area in a trash island. Box compactors are available on each installation to dispose of large cardboard boxes. Large boxes can be placed neatly on the ground in a trash island. Ensure dumpster lids are closed to avoid animals from pulling trash out onto the ground, and use the proper recycling containers. Keeping trash islands neat keeps health hazards at a minimum and keeps living spaces looking orderly and clean.

U.S. Army, Europe, has several requirements that must be met prior to operating a motorcycle in Europe. Drivers must present a completed AE Form 190-1T, a U.S. Forces identification card and a valid stateside or country license to the Once this is complete, applicants must attend a four-hour motorcycle orientation course unless already in possession of a German class 1, 1a, 1b, 4 or 5 license.

Experienced applicants who can provide proof of holding a previous license to operate the class of motorcycle for which they are applying must have a valid country, state or US. Forces command in Europe license for a motorcycle, pass a 30-question motorcycle test and pass a proficiency course. These applicants must submit form 190-1T within 30 days of arrival in Germany.

Novice applicants who have never been licensed, or cannot show proof of license, must complete motorcycle training at a German driving school at their own expense and, after receiving the German license, apply to the local DTS for a USAREUR license in the appropriate class.
